Thirty persons, many of them "big time" pushers and sellers, were arrested during the pre-planned and coordinated raids. More arrests are anticipated by police authorities. The crackdown began at 6 a.m. Friday, with dozens of police officers departing simultaneously for locations in six Dutchess County townships where the suspects were believed to be living. The last arrest was made at 4 a.m. today. The two added, "It is felt that many of the large suppliers of narcotics in Dutchess County have been put out of business." An estimated $5,000 in narcotics was seized while the raids were in progress, including a large quantity of LSD, hashish and heroin. A Sheriff's Department spokesman added that three automobiles were also seized. He said that the vehicles were taken because they had been used to transport narcotics in violation of the state public health code. Many of those arrested were arraigned on charges of third degree sale of dangerous drugs, a felony. Arrests were also made for fourth and fifth degree possession of dangerous drugs. Bail for those held in the Dutchess County Jail ranged up to $5,000. Nearly all of those arrested were under 30 and a spokesman said that many were teenagers from Dutchess County. It is not believed that any of those arrested were college students. All but three arrested lived in New York State. The others were from Massachusetts and Florida. Several females were picked up in the raids. Many of those nabbed were named on bench warrants obtained through Dutchess County District Attorney Albert Rosenblatt and Assistant District Attorney Ira Pergament. The raids, under the direction of the detective bureaus of local police agencies, were a success, said a police official, due to the tireless efforts of those persons involved in the investigation. Even while the narcotics raids were being conducted in Dutchess County, Rhinebeck State Police arrested 18-year old Rodney Brechieson of Hyde Park after a routine traffic check and charged him with sixth degree possession of a dangerous drug (LSD) and possession of a dangerous weapon (a billyclub). The youth, arrested by trooper J. R. Martino, was arraigned before Town of Rhinebeck Justice Herman Tietjen and ordered held in the Dutchess County Jail in lieu of $650 bail for a hearing Thursday.

'It Looked Like the World Was Afire'

WACO, Ga. (AP) — Five persons have been killed and 27 injured in the explosion of a truck laden with 400 cases of dynamite. It caught fire after colliding with an auto in this small northeast Georgia community. The Friday night blast demolished both vehicles along with a fire truck and ambulance that had rushed to the scene. An area the size of three football fields was left a wasteland of charred stumps and scattered debris. A crater 75 feet wide and 20 feet deep severed U.S. 78. Windows were broken in Waco and Bremen.

Army demolition crews from Ft. McClellan, Ala., were called in to scour the area for any unexploded dynamite sticks or blasting caps. A. W. Fielding, driver of the truck, said he spotted a small foreign car careening toward him. "I seen him cut to the left, 32, a volunteer fireman from Bremen; Troy F. Allen of Muscadine; Doyal Bell, 31 a Waco volunteer fireman; Cleve O. Heatt, 46, a Bremen wrecker driver; and Talmadge Adams, 40, of Waco. Authorities said Adams was the driver of the Volkswagen which collided with the truck. Fielding said he was unable to open the truck door after the collision, so he crawled out a window and raced for a ditch. "It looked like the world was afire," he recalled. Fielding said his first impulse was to warn motorists and spectators to flee as firemen and civil defense crews fought the blaze. "I practically begged them," said Fielding, who escaped injury. "Some of the people would not pay a bit of attention to me. They thought I was joking."

Fielding said one woman with several children drove up near the scene. He said he repeatedly pleaded with the woman to leave, then finally shouted, "Lady, for God's sake, would you get out of here! That is a load of dynamite and it is liable to explode at any time!" He said that convinced her to leave, he ran and "about that time it blew up."

Fitzsimmons Will Retire As Welfare Commissioner

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON Joseph (Buzzy) Fitzsimmons, Ulster County Commissioner of Welfare since 1959, has announced his retirement from the $17,000 post effective, Dec. 9, 1971.

"After more than 27 years in public office, I believe it is time to step down," he told The Freeman. The former Woodstock supervisor, whose name became a household word during the noted Liuni adoption case of 1966, said he has enjoyed the support and cooperation he has received throughout the years. The Liuni case gained worldwide attention when Fitzsimmons refused to permit Mr.

and Mrs. Michael Liuni of Tillson to adopt the blonde blue-eyed Elizabeth St. John. The commissioner argued that the Liunis were too old, at 48, to adopt the child. The Liunis, however, said they were refused initially because the child was fair skinned and blonde and they were not. The late Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick entered the fray on behalf of the Liunis, charging that Fitzsimmons' decision was prompted solely by ethnic reasons. The Liunis fought the case in court and were eventually granted permanent custody of the child. A search for a successor to Fitzsimmons is expected to begin immediately in that the qualifications for the position are presently spelled out by the state and require among other things a bachelors degree and administrative experience. Anyone selected by the Legislature would first have to have clearance from the State Department of Social Service. Fitzsimmons first gained prominence in Republican political circles when he began his career in 1944 with his appointment as Justice of the Peace in Woodstock to fill an unexpired term.

Jail Recommendations: New, Old Suggestions

KINGSTON The New York State Department of Correction has renewed four former recommendations for improvement of conditions at Ulster County Jail and has come up with three new suggestions, according to Warren A. Harding, inspector. The old recommendations, which are being repeated, call for expediting construction of the new county jail and giving consideration to providing all prisoners with a jail uniform and some type of inexpensive slipper or muir. Also, it is suggested that prisoners be either locked in their cells, or out in exercise corridors and that they not be permitted to enter or leave their cells at pleasure. The commission also advocates that prisoners be neatly barbered and that "unusual and bizarre hair styles" not be permitted. New recommendations include installing missing sanitary units in the city jail section and expansion of the treatment program which takes in such areas as recreation, religion, employment and library use. It is also suggested that the present detention record maintained by the City of Kingston Police Department in the Ulster County Jail, be revised so as to contain sufficient information concerning each prisoner. The commission also made one recommendation concerning the village lockup in Ellenville suggesting that the cell block and cells be recoated with a hard surface paint. The report also notes that the Ulster County Jail population has dropped, that housekeeping and security are generally good and that the practice of allowing two or more prisoners in a cell at one time is undesirable. Kitchen and food service was described as being good and favorable reports were given on such things as recreation, employment, medical care and religious services.

Later he was elected to two four year terms as town supervisor a post he held for 11 years until his appointment as Commissioner of Social Services by the old County Board of Supervisors in 1959. Active in civic and social affairs, as well, Fitzsimmons has served as president of the Woodstock Country Club and has held membership in Kingston Lodge of Elks and Woodstock Fire Company 1. As a supervisor he served on the Community College Committee, publicity and equalization committees and was chairman of the insurance, bridges and highways, machinery and salary study committees.

REV. CLAIR F. YOHE

Retirement Seems Unlikely For Council Chaplain

By JEAN F. DOLAN

KINGSTON — Retirement for the Rev. Clair F. Yohe? Well, maybe. A retired U.S. Army chaplain who retired as minister of the Highland United Methodist Church four years ago now is church council chairman, constant visitor to prisoners at the Kingston Area Council of Churches and minister of two southern Ulster churches.

Plans call for moving to Vermont where he and his wife will get away from the busy pastoral commitments for the pastoral life on an island in Lake Champlain. It is still difficult to believe that the man who has retired so many times before will not maintain a busy schedule of activity. The Rev. Mr. Yohe as institutional chaplain of the Church four years ago now is church council chairman, constant visitor to prisoners at the Kingston Area Council of Churches and minister of two southern Ulster churches.

Churches. The Napanoch church, he will conduct intriguing chapter titles as "Lessons to Be Learned," and "Man's Inhumanity to Man." He is quick to point out that the stories will prevent embarrassment or harm to those who lived them. He said he had learned that the tragedies behind bars are many and varied and he hopes to hit the paradox of cruelty which brings them to this end. In addition to writing, Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Yohe plan to travel extensively.

Retirement — maybe? The Rev. Gerard Van Dyk minister—Sunday school 9:30 a.m. to 10:30 a.m. service of worship 11 a.m.

Former Coal Miner Charged With Hijacking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A boyish former combat pilot, facing a cocked pistol for three hours, duped and disarmed an ailing coal miner who hijacked a United Air Lines jet Friday night to try to fly to Israel.

After forcing the plane to land here, pot-bellied gunman Glen Elmo Riggs, 58, of Ashford, W.Va., left his pistol lying on a seat when he got up to get a drink of water. His hostage brushed by him to seize it.

Flight Engineer Greg D. Colliton, 29, Hermosa Beach, Calif., said later, "He cocked the gun 50 or 60 times and pointed it at me every time I made the slightest move. I really felt he was going to shoot me."

Mariner 9 Makes Course Correction

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI)—Mariner 9 performed a crucial course correction with precision Friday night and now is heading toward a rendezvous with mysterious Mars a day earlier than originally planned.

"The spacecraft will reach Mars and be injected into Mars orbit at 4:29 p. m. PST (7:27 p. m. EDT) on Nov. 13," reported a Mariner control spokesman after tracking stations in Australia and South Africa confirmed the exactness of the maneuver.

Mariner 9 will sweep within 750 miles of the Martian surface in an orbit designed to give its twin television cameras a view of 70 per cent of the planet. It will not be able to detect life there, but its sensors may turn up new evidence suggesting that some primitive life forms exist on Mars.

Two heavier Soviet spacecraft also are en route to the red planet and they may attempt to land there with biological detection instruments.

Mariner 9's course change, controlled by a computer cued by radio from earth, was executed at 8:22 p. m. EDT when the one-ton probe was 838,000 miles from earth, heading toward Mars at 6,383 miles per hour.

Peacetime Soldiers

Taking note of the troubled Army today, President Nixon traveled to West Point to reassure the Corps of Cadets that theirs will be the role of America's peacetime soldiers, a role far more difficult for a military man in peace than in the trials of war.

"It is no secret that the discipline, integrity, patriotism and self-sacrifice which are the very lifeblood of an effective armed force and which the corps represents, can no longer be taken for granted in the Army in which you will serve," the Commander-in-Chief told the generals of tomorrow.

Though the symptoms of trouble range from drug abuse to insubordination, Mr. Nixon declared his belief that the military ethic remains strong in the hearts of America's fighting men. The special task of this generation of soldiers will be to reaffirm this ethic and give it new life and meaning for difficult times ahead, the President said.

Declaring that "at last we have the end of the American role in this (Vietnam) war clearly in sight," the President looked ahead rhetorically to a new era of international peace. He listed these signs of hope for peace:

America and the Soviet Union, the two great superpowers, are committed more seriously than ever before to working out an agreement that will limit strategic arms.

America and mainland China, after more than 20 years of hostility and isolation, are beginning to move toward a new and more normal relationship.

The nations of Europe are taking important steps toward greater unity.

The truce in the Middle East will soon be a year old.

Having brought the nation this far on the road to peace, the President had a right to hail the cadets as America's peacetime soldiers.

Red POWs Fear Future

Life as a prisoner of war in a South Vietnamese detention camp cannot be the most pleasant experience in the world.

Yet a screening by the International Committee for the Red Cross of some 570 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners which South Vietnam had offered to return and which North Vietnamese had agreed to accept, could produce only 13 who were willing to be repatriated.

This has been an "embarrassment" to both the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments, who were hoping to put additional pressure on Hanoi to release its American prisoners of war.

Like thousands of Red Chinese and North Koreans in the Korean War, whose refusal to be exchanged stalled peace negotiations for months, these North Vietnamese soldiers apparently prefer anything, even continued imprisonment to being sent back home.

It is not that they love their country the less but that they fear their country's Communist rulers the more.

We consider a prisoner of war just that—a soldier who happens to be made a prisoner during a war and who is no less honorable than any other soldier.

To the Communists, any man who lets himself be captured by the enemy has lost face and compromised his honor. Far from being welcomed home as a hero, he is received under a cloud of suspicion and disgrace.

It is claimed, in fact, that North Vietnam tells its soldiers that if they are captured in battle, they can forget about coming back.

All of this is of no interest to those Americans who want us to get out of Vietnam as fast as possible and devil take the hindmost.

But they might reflect that if they have their way, no North Vietnamese POW would ever again be faced with making a decision about going back home. The Communists will come and get him.

Rep. William R. Anderson, a recent critic of FBI director J. Edgar Hoover, thinks this is an opportune time to recognize the chief G-Man's public service. He plans to ask Congress for some form of reward for "his life of dedicated service to the United States." Anderson had faulted Hoover in a case in which he was interested.

Washington, D. C., police are hard to please. Just after discharging a member of the force because he was half an inch too short at 5 feet 6 1/2 inches, another 6 feet 5 1/2 inches has been fired for being too tall. Both were recruited in Pittsburgh, but were not measured until they had served on the force in Washington for a year.

Sugar growing countries that seize or nationalize U. S. property would be taxed $20 a ton on sugar sold to this country under a House Agricultural Committee ruling. Since the U. S. price is $40 a ton over the world price, affected countries would like continue shipping here. They would still be ahead by paying this fair tax. This should work with other products where its industries were stolen from us.

David Lawrence Says May Day Demonstration Was Carefully Structured

WASHINGTON — Small wonder that President Nixon doesn't have news conferences on television very often. Questions are put to him sometimes that tend to create wrong impressions in the minds of millions of listeners.

Tuesday night, for instance, Mr. Nixon was asked if he thought that keeping the government running was so important that some method "such as suspending constitutional rights" was justified. The reference, of course, was to the mass arrests in the "Mayday demonstrations." The president replied:

"I think when you talk about suspending constitutional rights that this is really an exaggeration of what was done. What we were talking about here basically was a situation where masses of individuals did attempt to block traffic, did attempt to stop the government. They said in advance that is what they were going to do. They tried it and they had to be stopped. They were stopped without injuries of any significance. They were stopped. I think, with a minimum amount of force and with a great deal of patience. And I must say that I think the police showed a great deal more concern for their rights than they (the demonstrators) showed for the rights of the people of Washington."

Another questioner asked whether, since the courts have dropped charges against so many of the persons arrested, the President felt the police had properly handled the situation. He answered that he did think so and pointed out that the police were confronted by those who contended they were demonstrators but actually were law breakers. In fact, Jerry V. Wilson, Chief of Police in Washington, in an interview in the May 24 issue of "U. S. News & World Report," explained exactly what had happened. He said:

"This demonstration was carefully structured by the organizers of the Mayday demonstration to strike at the weak points of our criminal-justice system. If you read their tactical manual, you can see that.

"They anticipated that we wouldn't be able, for example, to arrest their participants blocking traffic on May 3 because of the normally cumbersome processes for making arrests in the field. They knew our field-arrest processes, described them in their tactical manual. They knew the capacity of our prisoner-holding facilities, anticipated that we would not be able to make sufficient arrests to control the situation. Because of this, we had to tailor our response to the plans for this particular demonstration."

"In this type of thing, I think the only recourse the government had was to make mass arrests."

Chief Wilson pointed out that on May 10 the Senate had adopted a resolution highly commending the actions of the police. He said that there have always been complaints after mass arrests are made.

President Nixon declared that he approves fully what was done by the police and that, in the event that similar situations arise in the future, he hopes they can be dealt with as well as the one in May was handled. He firmly asserted:

"When people come in and slice tires, when they block traffic, when they make a trash bin out of Georgetown and other areas of the city, and when they terrorize innocent bystanders, they are vandals and hoodlums and law breakers and they should be treated as law breakers."

"Now, as far as the police were concerned, they gave those who were in this particular area, and who were engaging in these activities, approximately 15,000 in all, an opportunity to disperse. They did not. They said they were there to stop the government from operating."

"I have pledged to keep this government going. I approve the action of the police in what they did. I supported it after they did it. And in the event that others come in, not to demonstrate for peace but to break the peace, the police will be supported by the President and by the Attorney General in stopping that kind of activity."

So far as the persons who were arrested are concerned, they were present in areas where disturbances were going on and which the police ordered to be cleared. They were taken into custody when they did not leave. That some of them might be released was anticipated. The government presumably was well aware that the arrest itself would be a lesson for the future to those who had paid no heed to the warnings of the police.

New Soviet Strategic Arms? We Continue to Grope in Dark

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The virtual impossibility of foretelling what the Russians will do next in strategic weaponry is illustrated by the argument between intelligence analysts over what missiles Moscow will put in its new "super" silos:

Will they be the big SS9s, which used as a first-strike weapon could endanger our Minuteman defenses?

Or the smaller SS11s, now powerful or accurate enough to be a threat to the Minuteman force?

The difference of opinion demonstrates the limited — and late — nature of most intelligence data available on new major Russian systems. This is despite orbiting satellite "spies in the sky," our sophisticated electronic intelligence sensors and our battery of computers.

Take a new development in any of the most crucial weapons systems — ICBM missiles, aircraft, submarines and ABMs. Frequently all that intelligence can indicate is a wide range of possibilities, from mild to ominous.

A long lead time is necessary to develop major weapons. By the time we have certain knowledge of what the Russians are doing, it can be too late to catch up without a serious defense gap.

Cautious men, assessing the possibilities revealed by intelligence, assume the worst. And others, looking at the same possibilities assume the best.

The data is often so sketchy that even completely objective analysts (of which there are few), cannot determine whether the cautious or the noncautious answer is right.

Sometimes it doesn't matter. The United States has enough nuclear weapons to devastate the Soviet Union many times over. The Russians could make great breakthroughs and get ahead in some very significant areas with no catastrophic results. U.S. reserve strength would still be great enough for this country to hold its own until we caught up.

But there are other Russian breakthroughs that could upset the strategic balance and possibly endanger the very life of this country

The U.S. government could regularly assume the worst and act quickly to match everything the Russians might possibly be developing. But the nation could spend itself to death producing expensive new weapons systems which might then turn out to be useless and obsolete.

So what to do?

Arm control agreements will not solve this problem, short of comprehensive on-site inspection arrangements which are unlikely to be acceptable to either side. Scientists will always discover new and more destructive weapons in areas not covered by the bans and the ceilings. (Insofar as arms agreements do effectively limit the scope of the arms race, however, they serve a most useful purpose.)

If not arms agreements, then what?

In the short run, we must continue to depend on educated guesses. These have frequently been expensive wrong. But for the time being there seems to be no way out of that dilemma. In the long run, other better solutions are possible.

Jack Anderson Says Viet Cong Sniffs Out Drug-Using Units, Then Attacks

WASHINGTON — The Army denied our charge that drug usage is widespread among GIs in Vietnam until the facts could no longer be hidden.

The Army is still denying that the drug abuse has hurt U.S. combat effectiveness. But a hush-hush Army report, smuggled out of Vietnam, confirms our story in tragic detail.

The report, quoting communist defectors, alleges that the Viet Cong try to direct their attacks against U.S. positions whose defenders are high on drugs.

Viet Cong infiltrators literally sniff at the perimeters of U.S. outposts until they smell the acrid odor of hashish. They also listen for the high-pitched giggling that betrays "pot" users.

The Viet Cong seek out these soft points for attack, knowing they will find men unprepared to defend their positions. The lives of non-users thereby are also jeopardized.

This chilling drug report, never intended for public release, contains other horror stories. For instance:

A young GI, so drugged on marijuana he thought he could fly, bailed out of a helicopter 1,500 feet above the ground.

Another dreamily tucked a grenade under his chin and pulled the pin.

A third set off a grenade at a "pot" party, killing three of the four men in the bunker.

The report, which deals with the American Division's drug suppression program, was slipped to Rep. John Murphy, D-N.Y. He has fired off a private letter to Defense Secretary Mel Laird asking for all the facts surrounding the drug deaths.

Drugs Fraggings

Murphy has also requested an accounting of all "fraggings." This is the GI term for the murder of officers and non-coms, which is usually accomplished by rolling a fragmentation grenade into their quarters. Murphy suggested the wave of "fraggings" may be drug-induced.

In describing the helicopter death, Murphy wrote Laird: "Lt. Col. Edward Krekorian, surgeon for the Americal Division, identified this case as one where the division chaplain was bringing a GI back to the division base camp after he was caught using marijuana."

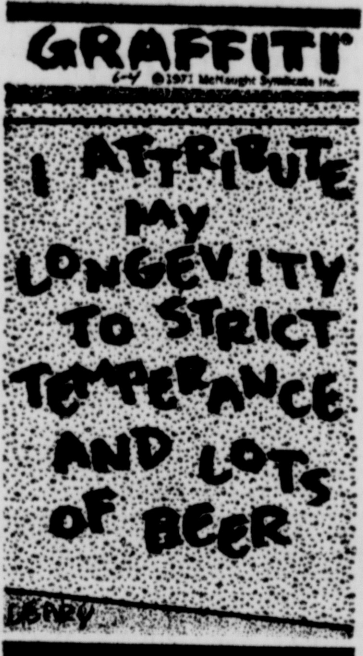

"They were in a helicopter about 1,500 feet above the ground when the GI jumped out of the chopper proclaiming that he could float down to earth. As Colonel Krekorian said, 'Pieces of his body were collected and put in a bag and sent back to the States!'"

The American report also deals with two little-known drugs apparently popular in Vietnam. One called Obesitol, purportedly for reducing, is taken orally. Sold in six-ounce bottles across the counter in Saigon, it is a powerful amphetamine mixed with Saigon river water and called "Gook Speed" by GIs.

An injectable drug called Maxitone Forte causes a paranoid reaction, according to the report. Both drugs have led users to commit brutal murders. In some cases, GIs have sought to "come down" from their drug-induced high by using a powerful barbiturate known as "Binocet." Instead, the interaction of the drugs has killed them.

All these drug abuses were found, significantly, in the Americal Division, which was responsible for the My Lai massacre. Although the findings came well after the My Lai slaughter, they confirm that the division has a history of drug use and give credence to the whispers that Lt. William Calley's company may have been high on drugs at My Lai.

Footnote: Congressman Murphy plans a tour of Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia.

Rank Arrogance of Rigid-Libs

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — There's a pretty sizable bunch of liberals around today who work hard at giving liberalism a bad name.

It's also true, of course, at the conservative end of the spectrum. So why pick on the liberals? Simple. They're making the clamor and getting the attention, as the conservatives did in the Goldwater era.

We're talking here about one very special kind of liberal, marked by doctrinaire rigidity, by an arrogant attitude which says "there's only one way to do it and we're telling you," and by a powerful urge to embarrass, demean, penalize and even punish adversaries.

In this town they bear a charmed life. They seem to gain their credibility from knocking the credibility of others. They get a season pass from the journalistic fraternity. Seldom are their assertions and arguments subject to the same hard scrutiny which reporters level at an incumbent administration. Skepticism in Washington is selective.

The rigid liberals tout absurdly bad books like Charles Reich's "The Greening of America." They often manage to overstate the horrors of the war in Indochina, which isn't easy. Looking at the frustrations of the young, the black, the brown and others, they condone rage but deplore the violence it can lead to.

Their criticisms of the police and the military, which can be immensely useful when specific and pointed, frequently are cruelly ambiguous. Delivered sweepingly, they appear to suggest we could well do without an Army and a police force. What does it really mean to be "antimilitary" in a country that surely is going to have an Army for long, long years?

The doctrinaire types are supposed to have the smarts. Nobody, it is contended, can match them for intellect, insight, etc. Why, then, do so many of them spend so much time shouting schoolboy slogans, flushing with joy when somebody cries "Fire J. Edgar Hoover!" and putting the rap on the people who don't subscribe to their narrow little catechism?

Not too many weeks ago, a frail publication called The New Democrat listed the fellows it thought were fit to have the 1972 Democratic nomination for president. Pointedly missing was the name of Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, top contender.

What's the matter with Big Ed? Critics say he's "indecisive." He says he sees a lot of sides to things and takes time to make up his mind. The Marching and Shouting Society scorns that kind of nonsense. What's your decision, fella? We want it now!

If there's any fine intellectual discrimination in this kind of appraisal, it's not apparent. What the rigid liberals seem to say is:

"We've got the brains around here. And if you want to impress us, what you need to do is show emotion, especially anger. That's the big one today. Anybody who isn't in a fury hasn't got it."

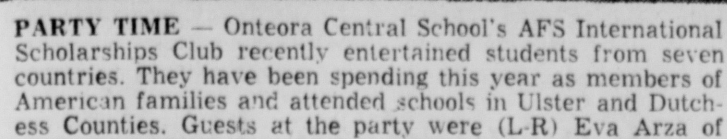

Never in mind digging deep to discover who really has a good store of knowledge, a capacity for learning and growth, and above all a talent for reasoned, balanced judgment. Who wants balanced judgment when society is at the ragged edge? What we need, man, is action!

And bad report card for those who aren't on the right stick today. Remember those now sidelined public figures like Dean Acheson and John J. McCloy, whom President Nixon marshaled to help kill Sen. Mansfield's proposal to cut our NATO European force in half? Nixon surely was indulging in overkill when he put that aging posse together. But what about the rigid-libs? They ridiculed the old soldiers, all of whom had done heavy and usually selfless duty for their country, as if they were a gang of war criminals (some just said doddering old fools). Really?

You there, you public servant or politician: Do you have the rigid-libs Good Housekeeping seal of approval? Watch out! You can lose it with one phrase that flunks the old litmus test. A couple of gray spots on your pants, even if they're brown, and you'll be out.

Doing the Right Thing

by Elizabeth L. Post
(© 1971, Emily Post Institute, Inc.)

• HOW COULD there possibly be so many questions about a simple subject like addresses?

You may not be a great correspondent, but everyone must send cards or write business letters from time to time. Take this quiz to see if you are an A-1 correspondent, at least on your envelopes.

• Where is the correct place for a return address?

A typewritten, printed or handwritten return address goes in the upper left corner of the front of the envelope. Engraved addresses go on the back flap.

• When is it permissible to use "and family?"

When a family is large and when every member of the family under the same roof is included in the greeting or invitation. Individual envelopes are better when there are only Mr. and Mrs. and one or two others.

• When is Master used?

For boys only until they are 6 or 7.

• Is Esquire ever used?

Esquire is rarely seen today. It is used only, and then infrequently, by and for members of the legal profession. If the title is used, Esq. follows the name and Mr. is never omitted. Esquire is never used on engraved invitations or when the correspondence is to man and wife.

• When one receives a letter signed Emily Mason, Secretary, does one address his reply to Miss or Mrs.?

Miss. If the writer wished to be addressed as Mrs., she would put (Mrs. John Mason) below her signature.

• Is it correct to type addresses on birthday or anniversary cards?

No, unless your writing is totally illegible. Handwritten addresses are much warmer and prevent the envelope from looking like commercial correspondence.

• When writing thank-yous for wedding gifts, do you address the envelope to the couple who sent the gift or to just the woman?

If you write your note to both persons, address the envelope to them. If you write it to the wife only and include her husband in the text, the envelope is addressed to her.

• When writing a note of condolence to a woman whose mother died, do you address it to her, or do you write to her and her husband?

If the husband was on friendly terms with his mother-in-law, he should be included. You also may address a condolence note to "the family of John Doe."

• When two single people live together, how are letters which are meant for both of them addressed?

Two brothers: The Messrs. Smith. Two sisters: The Misses Smith. All others: each name written individually.

• What is the correct way to address a letter to a friend who is visiting another family?

Miss Joan Smith, in care of (or c/o) Mrs. Henry Adams. Either way is correct.

TWO BARS OF SOAP

Why two bars of soap for baby's bath? One serves to wash him clean, the other as a "cushion" to hold safety pins.

PEOPLE ASK US . . .

WHAT DOES HANDY-ANDY DO?

Well, Handy-Andy will panel a room, replace windows, repair your patio, hang shelves, put-up curtain rods, repair furniture, un-plug drains, paint a garage, fix broken steps, replace loose tiles, re-hang doors, do minor carpentry, repair a lamp, fix a fence.

Elaine J. Jacobsen Weds Dieter Thiel

Miss Elaine Jean Jacobsen of Marlborough, and Dieter O. Thiel, New York City, exchanged nuptial vows on Tuesday, May 25 at 2 p.m. at Old Dutch Church, Kingston. The Rev. Arthur E. fitted gown was styled with a jewel neckline, bell shaped sleeves and a self train. Her triple tiered fingertip French illusion veil was held by a band of fresh white rosebuds and baby's breath and she carried a cascade bouquet of white rosebuds and baby's breath.

Joe knows how much this hurts me. Why does he act this way, and what can I do about it?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: He acts that way because he doesn't enjoy the company of your sister and her husband, and that his way of punishing you for insisting he go out with them. Mature adults realize that there are some social situations (and business, too) that are a drag, but for the sake of the spouse, one should try to enter into the spirit of it and have a good time.

Your husband figures if he makes you miserable enough, you'll go only where he wants to go. He's selfish and childish. Appeal to his sense of fair play, and help him grow up.

DEAR ABBY: Both the living room and the bedroom of my apartment face directly on to the backyard of a woman who has seven high strung pure bred collie dogs.

The dogs are beautiful, but they bark and yelp and snarl and fight almost constantly from the time they are let out in the morning until the time they are taken in for the night. The woman is breaking no law keeping her dogs, but the incessant barking is making a nervous wreck of me. I have spoken to her about the noise, and so have other neighbors but she has done nothing about it.

Can you suggest a way to solve this problem that is neither cruel nor illegal? I am not about to poison the dogs as one of my friends suggested.

NERVOUS WRECK

DEAR WRECK: Are you sure your neighbor is breaking no law? There is a limit to the number of dogs one may keep without obtaining a license to operate a kennel. Since you have already complained to your neighbor without success, you have every right to complain to the police.

Man Injured In City Mishap

KINGSTON — John F. Lalima, 23, of 931 Orlando Street, complained of chest pains after his car crashed into a telephone pole on Albany Avenue near Madison Avenue at 4 a.m. today, according to city police. Lalima's car, said police, lost control and struck the pole after running over a pothole in the road. He was treated at Benedictine Hospital. Highland troopers, meanwhile, investigated a two-car crash on Route 32 in the Town of Gardiner at 9:30 Friday night. Troopers said that a car driven by Andres Rodriguez, 59, of Plattkill failed to keep to the right and struck another car operated by Fred Miller, 38, of South Ohioville Road, New Paltz. Miller sustained a bruised head, but was not hospitalized, said police. Rodriguez, cited for driving while intoxicated, was arraigned before Town of Gardiner Justice Samuel Stokes and released in the custody of his wife for an appearance June 25. Ellenville state police reported a two-car crash on Route 44-55 in Kerhonkson at 9:50 Friday night, which led to summonses issued to both drivers. Valerie Stein, 36, of Kerhonkson was cited for failure to keep to the right while the driver of the other car, Lisa Leonard, 22, of New Paltz, was issued a summons for unsafe tires. Mrs. Stein was treated at Ellenville Community Hospital for a possible concussion.

Four Injured In Plane Crash

BEDFORD, Pa. (UPI) — Four men were injured Friday when their plane crashed two miles north of the Bedford interchange of the Pennsylvania Turnpike. Jack Shuster, 50, Pittsburgh, and Conrad Ruppert, 43, Poughkeepsie, N.Y., underwent surgery at Bedford Memorial Hospital. Also injured were Keith Overberg, 25, the pilot, and Joseph Longham, 29, both of Wappingers Falls, N.Y. All four were reported in satisfactory condition. An eyewitness said the plane took off from Bedford Airport, knocked down power lines, fell in a ditch and came to a halt on a nearby field. The Piper plane did not catch fire and the passengers were rescued within a few minutes after the crash.

Titled Cop

BRADFORD, England (UPI) — Officially he is now Lord Calverley, but the new peer says he does not mind it if his superiors still call him police Constable Rodney Muff. Muff, 24, inherited the title on the death of his father this week. "It will make scarcely any difference to my life," said the new lord. "I have set out to be a policeman and that is what I am going to be."

A Costly Cigaret

LEICESTER, England (UPI) — Truck driver Michael Blackery landed in court because a pal passed him a cigaret. The only trouble was that the pal was in another truck — riding down a highway at 45 miles per hour side by side with Blackery's truck, a court heard Friday. Blackery, 23, was fined $8 for careless driving. The driver of the other truck was banned from driving for six months and also fined $8 on the same charge.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, June 6

GENERAL TENDENCIES: An unusual day for those who are determined to have own way. There are a considerable number of obstacles to overcome. Most progress can be made by treating others in the same manner as you would like to be treated. Chaos rules when self-control is lacking. Show that you have wisdom.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You must plan exactly how to handle responsibilities in the morning. Being thoughtful with close ties pays off nicely. Avoid one who is a trouble maker. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Come to a better understanding with associates today so that future matters can be handled with no trouble. Show common sense in handling special matters. Take it easy tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You may have to forget recreation you had anticipated for more practical matters that await you now. Then you come out a winner. Do something about improving health, also. Take it easy tonight.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Do those things that relieve tension but don't get too involved. Associating with the unreliable could bring you headaches. Be true to your loyal friends. Keep cheerful.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Keep steadily occupied with conditions at home that require improvement. One at home requires your full support. Be sure to give it. Going out to the social tonight is fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)

untried interests that could be bad for you. Avoid a new acquaintance who is too glamorous and has little depth. Otherwise you could regret it later on.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those opinionated young people who must be taught early to listen to what others have to say. Your youngster can then avoid much antagonism. Teach to be reasonable. The best profession is one where trouble shooting is the keynote, be it in civic work or connected with real estate, trusts, etc. A college education may, or may not, be necessary here. A natural bookworm.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Monday, June 7

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Lots of new ideas can be zooming through your consciousness and you would be wise to combine your intuition and judgment so that you can make the fullest possible use of them. Excellent for arrangements that have to do with traveling as well as deciding the school of thought best suited to your temperament.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Contacting people whose ideas are different from your own and showing you are open-minded can lead to excellent results today. Make last minute plans for the vacation you are soon to have. Be sure wardrobe is right.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) You have responsibilities to others that require all of your attention in a.m., and then everyone will be satisfied. See how you can please loved one more. Greater harmony is important now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make it a point to know what is expected of you by partners and make slight changes in present agreements. Later you can enjoy amusements together and have a true understanding. Avoid extravagance, though.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan that activity that will put more zip and success into your daily work and come to better terms with co-workers. Don't forget that appointment with your tailor. Avoid the limelight tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) This can be a particularly happy day and p.m. if you spend your time with those you like and admire, whether in business or socially. You are very creative now and can express yourself well. Think positively.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) See what you can do to remove limitations from your home so that you and those who dwell with you can be more comfortable, happy. Then enjoy the recreation that pleases. Cultivate a happy disposition. Improve your diet.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Show usual contacts that you will cooperate with them more in the future. Listen to what a good friend has to say who likes to state ideas clearly and wisely. Avoid one who talks too much.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Doing those things that give you more revenue and acclaim upgrades your position in life now. Make some changes in budget that will make it more workable. Forget all that temper you usually get into.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you get together with good friends, you can enjoy pleasures you have not had for a long time. Get your appearance just right before you go out socially. Make an excellent impression on others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy quietly taking care of your affairs without all that fanfare, and others will appreciate you more. The evening can be most happy with mate, provided you are romantic. Show more kindness, though.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Use your gregarious qualities during all spare time you may have today and this will lead to fine conversations, ideas, fun. You can promote personal aims easily now. Don't lose your temper, though.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Obeying all rules and laws that apply to you is wise and your duty, so do just that. Show that you are an A-1 citizen. Find the right gadgets that improve your work and make it easier.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The albatross is a sea bird with unsurpassed powers of flight and a wingspread of about 12 feet—the longest of any flying creature. The World Almanac says that the albatross is nicknamed "gooney bird" by Americans who constructed airstrips on Midway Island and needed to remove the stubborn birds from their nests.

Council's 'First Lady' Won't Run Again

KINGSTON — Mrs. Florence Shea Ludlow, Democratic representative of the Fourth Ward, announced today that she will not seek reelection this fall.

"After four years I think it's time I stepped down and gave someone else a chance," Mrs. Ludlow, the only woman ever elected to the Common Council in its 99-year history, told The Freeman today.

Mrs. Ludlow said her decision to retire from active political life was not lightly arrived at. "I had reservations about seeking reelection in 1969," she said. "I made a firm decision not to run this year in January." "In my heart, I'll always be a politician," she added, indicating that she would stay active in the future, even though out of office. "My father was active in politics," Mrs. Ludlow's father, the late Harry Shea, was a Democratic superintendent of highways in the Town of Marlborough in the mid-30's.

Mrs. Ludlow waged her first political campaign in 1963, losing by three votes to Edward Schrowang, incumbent Republican alderman in the old First Ward. She was elected a committeeman in that ward in 1965, replacing Raymond W. Garrahan, who was elected to his first term as mayor that year. Two years later, Mrs. Ludlow won a 13-vote victory over incumbent Republican George Margolis. She was reelected in 1968 and again in 1969, defeating Republican Peter C. Fisher both times by narrow margins.

Mrs. Ludlow served on the Railroad and Bus Committee and on the Elections Committee during her first two years in the Council and moved up to the Auditing Committee and the Urban Renewal Committee this term.

She is particularly proud of her attendance record over the past three and a half years. "I missed only one Council meeting," she said, "and that was because of illness. I never missed a (Democratic) caucus and missed very few (Council) committee meetings."

Mrs. Ludlow considers her Fourth Ward the most important in the city and one of the most difficult (in the sense that it is time-consuming) to represent. "The Fourth Ward is the connecting link between midtown and uptown," she said. "We have both the Uptown Businessmen's Association and the Central Broadway Businessmen's Association. We have urban renewal and a code enforcement program."

"And," she added, "We have residents who are vitally interested in city affairs. My phone hasn't stopped ringing in three and a half years. And I've always been there to answer it."

Mrs. Ludlow, who operates her own beauty shop at 87 St. James Street, will now be able to devote more time to her business. "My customers will be glad to hear I'm not running again," she said. "We are interested in the city beautification program, the landmarks preservation program ('they should have started years ago'), narcotics guidance programs, the Stockade area. 'I guess I'll be a sort of free-lancer,' she said."

Mrs. Ludlow looks at her Council career "like any other job. 'It had its joys and heartaches.'"

Communications with her male colleagues, apparently wasn't one of the problems. "The first meeting, I felt very strange with all those men," she said. "But after that, I was one of the boys."

Mrs. Ludlow expressed the hope that other women would follow in her footsteps. "I think women are missing the boat by not getting more active in city government," she said. "I hope this isn't the end of women serving in the Council. I opened the door four years ago. I hope it stays open."

Mrs. Ludlow would also like to leave the council with something more than her memory as its first lady. "I'm going to sponsor a resolution changing the name of our representatives from aldermen to councilmen," she said.

"I think we should be called councilmen," she said. "Aldermen is so old-fashioned."

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

There is an unwritten rule in the Common Council, and probably in all councils of government, that a representative of an area knows what's best for his area.

The Stewart jetport controversy is a good example. State Senator Jay P. Rolison, in discussing the issue with us before it came to a head, spelled out what might be labeled Rule No. 1 in government.

Rolison, a few days before the conversation, had made a public statement that "he had the votes," to kill the jetport in the Senate.

Being somewhat dubious, we asked Rolison why New York City area legislators would not jump at the chance to push a major jetport into the upstate area.

"Well," Rolison said, "We voted with them against a new bridge at Oyster Bay that they didn't want." Rule No. 1.

Rolison, in a sense, was "calling in his favors" and in politics, if one expects to be successful at it, one always pays bills when due.

The system, of course, works both ways, with the reversal being true . . . he who jobs his fellow legislator gets jobbed when his turn comes.

Such may be the case with the proposed widening of Albany Avenue from the Sharpe Cemetery on out to the junction of Foxhall Avenue.

At this point, nothing is definite, but we presume that the state didn't spend money on surveyors and traffic counts just to keep the crews busy when it wasn't raining.

Albany Avenue residents, naturally, are up in arms. They like their street the way it is, and who can blame them. They want the Common Council to smother any plans the state might have before they even get off the ground.

A group of some 40 persons from the Albany Avenue area appeared at the Tuesday night meeting of the Council with a petition containing some 70 names. For the most part, the aldermen appeared sympathetic.

There was one notable exception: Emilio A. Primo Jr., the chairman of the Arterial Route Committee.

Primo was perhaps not unsympathetic to the Albany Avenue residents' plight. After all, he could easily understand the situation. It was only last year that the state announced plans to run a four-lane highway through the heart of Primo's Eighth Ward.

Residents down there were up in arms, too. They didn't want their homes taken. They packed three public hearings, protesting loudly, and sometimes eloquently. But as Primo said at Tuesday night's Council meeting, "it was fruitless."

Primo seemed to be asking, "Where were you people when my people needed help?" Rule No. One in reverse.

Which could mean, that if the Albany Avenue widening issue ever gets far enough to get to a Council vote, its defeat will be somewhat less than certain. The uptown aldermen will have a very difficult time getting votes from the downtown aldermen. The uptown aldermen have no favors to call in when it comes to arterials.

COUNCIL CAPERS—One may not always agree with Flo Ludlow, Don Quick, Mike Perry and Cliff Sinsabaugh, but at least they're consistent on one issue, trips by city employees. The four aldermen all voted against trips last month at the recommendation of the mayor who was in the "belt tightening" campaign and they came right back and voted against a trip this time. The guy asking for the trip just happened to be Francis R. Koenig, our mayor.

The mayor, it seems has almost come full circle on trip policy. At first, the mayor asked for trips for both himself and Louis DeCicco, the city clerk. They made an odd couple, Frank at about 6-4 and Louis about a foot shorter.

Then austerity set in when the state sent word that upwards of $330,000 promised previously wouldn't be coming. The mayor canceled all trips, including his own.

Sometime in the middle of May, the mayor was asked if he intended to attend a Mayors' Conference confab at the Americana in New York City the week of June 6. Maybe, the chief executive said, he'd drop in on some of the more important sessions, but, he emphasized, he would pay his own way. Money, you see, was still tight at city hall.

Then came the revised budget and things returned to normal. Almost. The mayor put in for a trip of his own to Grossingers for the middle of this month . . . but no Louis. Poor Louis. Maybe if the state passes a supplemental budget the mayor can find a few bucks for his former traveling companion.

THE GOP—In case anyone forgot, the GOP city convention is Tuesday night. The Republicans hope to find a mayoral candidate who they hope can put a sizeable dent in Frank Koenig's 3,900 vote plurality from 1969.

Names at this point, don't mean too much but we heard one that's kind of interesting: former Police Chief Bob Murphy. "Murphy" is being mentioned as either a mayoral candidate or a candidate for alderman in the Sixth Ward against Don Quick. Time, which is very short right now, will tell.

Meanwhile, back down the political trail, the troops are restless. The afore mentioned Primo, Eighth Ward Demo, may be involved in a primary. The name of Joe Epstein has been mentioned here and there but party insiders pretty much discount that possibility. Joe is one of those old time politicians who liken primaries to mortal sins.

The name bandied about the Eighth Ward is John Smith, which isn't an alias. Smith is president of the Democratic Men's Club and has done some sterling work for the party.

While the Demos may have problems in the Eighth Ward, the Republicans have a similar situation up the hill in the Seventh. Dick Cahill wants another chance to run against the incumbent Democrat, Mike Perry. Cahill, at last count, was 0-2 against Perry, but thinks he can change things this year.

Some GOP big shots don't think so, and are pushing for Tom Davitt. Last we heard, Cahill had enough committee votes for the nomination. There could very well be a (GOP) primary in that ward.

Offer Plan to Help GI Drug Addicts

MODESTO Calif. (AP) —not consider it one now, Cranston said.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said drug use has become such a problem with American troops in Vietnam he will introduce legislation declaring drug addiction a service-connected disability.

This, he said, would widen the door to treatment in Veterans Administration clinics and hospitals.

Soldiers who became addicted to heroin in Vietnam are dying in the country because they can't get Veterans Administration care, Cranston said Friday in an interview.

To make it easier for veterans who became drug users in the service to get VA treatment, Cranston said he will propose legislation along three lines:

—Make drug addiction a service-incurred disability. The Veterans Administration does not consider it one now, Cranston said.

—Change discharge conditions so that bad conduct or dishonorable discharges given addicts don't make them ineligible for treatment at VA centers.

—Spend $30 million to expand VA hospital drug treatment centers for narcotics addicts from 5 to 60 by the end of 1972.

Cranston said "new evidence of very great use of heroin and really hard drugs, in addition to widespread marijuana use in Vietnam is incredibly shocking."

In recent weeks congressional investigators and others have reported that 30,000 to 40,000 U.S. servicemen in Vietnam are users of heroin, marijuana and other narcotics.

Cranston heads a Senate subcommittee on veterans affairs, health and hospitals which is to meet in joint session with a subcommittee on veterans alcoholism and narcotics June 15-16.

Meanwhile, in Indochina, North Vietnamese gunners kept up a two-week-long rocket bombardment of allied positions guarding the demilitarized zone and struck close to Saigon for the first time in several months, military spokesmen reported today.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command, Maj. Richard Gardner, said 11 Americans were wounded in three rocket attacks against U.S. positions Friday.

Enemy gunners fired 15 rounds of 122mm rockets into Charlie 2, a U.S. base only four miles southeast of the DMZ, and rained 25 missiles into the position of American ground troops five miles northeast of the base.

In the third attack, less than five rounds of 107mm rockets hit a U.S. helicopter base at Phu Loi, 13 miles north of Saigon. The U.S. Command said damage was light. Field reports said some helicopters were hit.

Charlie 2 has been shelled nearly a dozen times during the past two weeks. On May 21, a rocket tore through a crowded bunker at the base, killing 29 GIs and wounding 33. The rest of the attacks have caused a small number of casualties.

The Saigon military command reported South Vietnamese infantryman clashed with up to 400 North Vietnamese troops Friday in the central highlands about 25 miles south of Pleiku. The South Vietnamese field reports said two South Vietnamese soldiers were killed and 10 were wounded.

In scattered fighting on the edges of the A Shau Valley in the northern quarters of South Vietnam, Saigon forces reported killing 17 enemy and capturing eight rifles. One South Vietnamese soldier was wounded, headquarters said.

Laird Hits Saigon, Wants More Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, in rare public criticism of the South Vietnamese government, has expressed dissatisfaction with Saigon's efforts to slow the flow of drugs to U.S. troops.

Laird's complaint came Friday through Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim.

"He's not yet satisfied that all the steps that can be taken have been taken," Friedheim said of Laird's views on the heroin traffic in Vietnam.

Friedheim made the comment when he was asked if Laird was pleased that relatives of Prime Minister Tran Thien Khiem had been fired after complaints they were involved in the drug traffic.

Friedheim said the South

Vietnamese government has taken "a number of steps" to stop the traffic. But, he said, Laird "would expect a continuing effort."

President Nixon discussed the drug problem with Laird at a meeting Thursday.

The Senate Narcotics subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, will open hearings Wednesday on the drug problem among GIs in Vietnam.

Hughes said he was informed by Assistant Defense Secretary Roger T. Kelley that the Pentagon would be ready to present details of a new plan it is developing to attack the problem at a supplementary subcommittee hearing June 22.

Despite Laird's criticism, the State Department said Friday

it had received "generally positive and cooperative" responses from Asian nations in the fight against the drug problem.

"We look forward to active assistance of the governments concerned in meeting this very difficult problem," said Charles W. Bray, State Department press officer.

In another development Friday, Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced U.S. federal narcotics agents and Spanish police had seized a record 249 pounds of heroin Thursday night in Valencia, Spain.

The heroin was headed for the United States where it would have been worth $35 million to $40 million, Mitchell said. He said it was found hidden in an automobile.

Nixon Gets Break On the Draft Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In an atmosphere heavy with presidential politics, the Senate has spared President Nixon—and himself—from having to take a stand on the draft next year before the election.

A close 49 to 43 vote Friday killed an amendment by Sen. Richard Schweiker, R-Pa., to extend the draft only for one year. If it had passed, the President would probably have been forced to request, and Congress to grant, another extension only months before they face 10 million newly enfranchised 18, 19, and 20-year-olds in the 1972 elections. It was another victory for President Nixon in his fight for a two-year extension of draft authority. Opponents of the draft, seeking to deny Nixon manpower to conduct the Vietnam War, have lost every test so far and have turned to a filibuster to force an automatic end to the draft when the current Selective Service law expires June 30.

An amendment by Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., to end the draft on that date was buried 67 to 23.

The Schweiker amendment was as close as draft opponents have come to changing Nixon's double-barreled proposal to continue conscription and raise military pay and allowances in an effort to attract enough volunteers to make the draft unnecessary by mid-1973.

Schweiker said four hours before the vote he thought he might have a chance to win but the administration—with heavy lobbying—convinced about a half-dozen senators that another draft debate next year might embarrass the administration politically.

Schweiker, however, said administration officials flatly promised wavering senators that Nixon would not ask for a draft extension again in 1973—when the new draft law will expire. The election will be over by then.

Four Democratic presidential hopefuls—Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and George McGovern, D-S.D.—voted for Schweiker's amendment, along with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., considered another contender, voted against it.

But on Hatfield's proposal to junk the draft now, only Bayh and McGovern backed the measure. The others refused to join Hatfield in his strategy of denying Nixon the manpower to continue the war in Vietnam.

Yuba City Graveyard Yields 25th Victim

YUBA CITY, Calif. (AP) —Using a map based on infrared photographs, searchers planned to continue their probe all weekend of orchards along the Feather River where the bodies of 25 men have been unearthed.

Sutter County Sheriff Roy Whiteaker said deputies concluded their search on the Jack Sullivan ranch late Friday after finding a depression in a peach orchard that turned out to be the 25th grave.

He said the search would continue, based on the photographic map, over the weekend because "I believe it's important that we exhaust every effort."

Most victims have been middle-aged drifters and itinerant farm workers stabbed and hacked to death in the past two months. Many are still unidentified.

Farm labor contractor Juan V. Corona, 37, who recruited work crews for area ranchers, has been charged with murder of the first 10 men found. He is in the Yuba County jail.

The infrared photographs show dark spots where soil has been recently disturbed by digging. The pictures were taken from a plane.

Woodstock Songstress Sonia Malkine Chats with Michel Simon, Veteran Actor of Some 40 French Films, at Palais de la Mutualite Gala in Paris Recently

Full Week's TV Listing From June 6 Thru June 12

Sonia Malkine Teams With Redstreet Band

THE DISTINCTIVE STYLE of the Red Street Band will resound through the environs of the Woodstock Art Gallery tonight, Saturday, June 5, when the locally based musicians appear in a dual concert in the Artists Association's Spring Music Series. Also featured on the night's programs: the talented Sonia Malkine, singer of French and other folk songs.

Sonia Malkine is almost as well known among rock and folk aficionados in the States and abroad as she is in Woodstock, her home, where she will appear with the Red Street Band at the Woodstock Art Gallery tonight, Saturday, June 5 at 8 p.m.

Sonia has made 35 of her own network TV shows — 15 of which were seen locally in the past year. Another half hour color TV show made in Albany with Sonia and the Red Street Band also was shown locally over Channel 17 and Channel 12 last month.

Her many college appearances included Univ. of Jacksonville, Univ. of Delaware and Old Dominion in Virginia. She has sung in Washington for the Council of Arts, the National Park Service and the Canadian Embassy. In France she sang at the American Center in Paris and at the Palais de la Mutualite with Michel Simon (see Tempo's cover), Colette Renard and Jean Rigeux.

Busy Summer

Slated for numerous appearances during the coming months in such various places as Brooklyn, Lancaster County in Pennsylvania and Brunswick, Canada, Sonia will also be seen on Channel 13 from New York City in a 45-minute show, FRENCH FOLK SONGSTRESS Sonia Malkine will offer a lilting, lyrical repertoire tonight at a concert to be presented under the auspices of the Woodstock Artist's Association in that group's Village Green gallery. She'll share the stage with the Red Street Band.

"Rainbow Quest," the second week in August.

Her performance tonight is part of the Spring Music Series at the Gallery made possible through partial funding by the New York State Council on the Arts. Tickets for the concert are $2 each and will be available at the door. Due to limited seating at the Gallery, those desiring seats are urged to come early.

Summertree Theatre New on Summer Scene

Another entertainment treat has been added to the ever-burgeoning cycle in the Catskills area. Coming to nearby Greene County soon will be The Summertree Playhouse, a professional summer stock theatre opening June 28 on Spruce Street in Tannersville.

Summertree producers Calabrese, La Placa and Carr will be presenting their plays at the beautiful Grand Hotel Casino. The Casino, along with the famed Fairmont Hotel, was one of the most prominent gathering places in the Catskills from the early 1920's to the 1950's; became celebrated for its stunning Armenian decor and top-notch entertainment.

Now, Summertree takes over to continue the Grand Hotel tradition; will present five Broadway plays this season with a professional New York City company.

Headed by Tony Calabrese, of Catskill, with partners Don Carr Jr. of Shreveport, La. and Rosemary La Placa of Princeton, N.J., Summertree will open the season with the Tom Jones and Harvey Schmidt musical hit, "I Do! I Do!"—which starred Mary Martin and Robert Preston on Broadway. The show will run from June 28 through July 10.

Other plays on Summertree's schedule this season are: "The Star Spangled Girl" by Neil Simon, which starred Connie Stevens, Anthony Perkins and Richard Benjamin in the original production (July 12-24); "The Fantasticks," the off-Broadway musical that has been running for more than 10 years (July 26-Aug. 7); "Sweet Charity," the musical made into a movie in which Shirley MacLaine starred, Aug. 9-21; and "Plaza Suite," Neil Simon's longest running Broadway success, Aug. 23-Sept. 5.

Calabrese and Carr have produced shows in dinner theatres across the U.S.; recently completed a highly successful winter-spring season in Albuquerque, N.M., where they presented "I Do! I Do!," "Sunday in New York," "The Tender Trap," and "The Star Spangled Girl."

Co-Authored 'Pets'

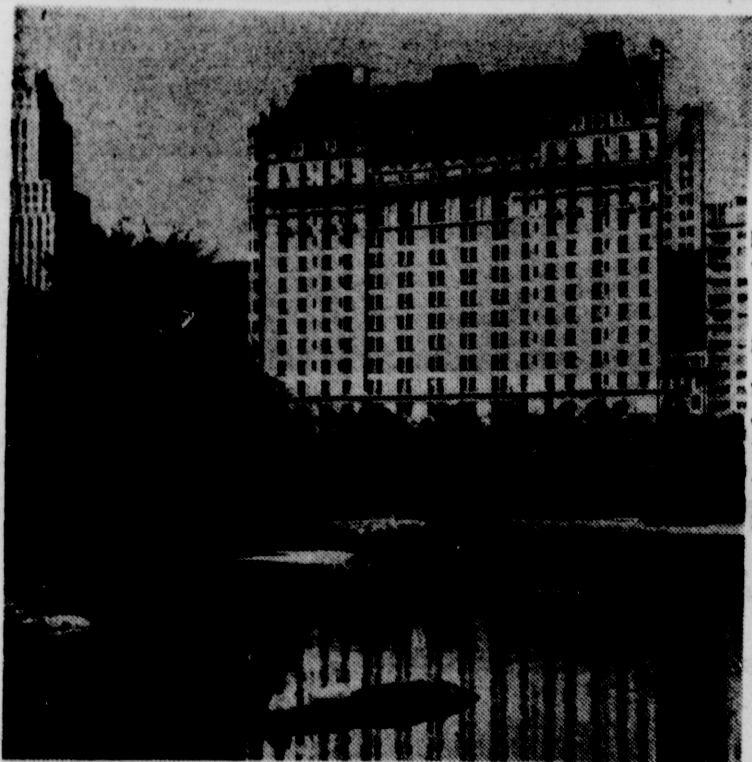

Calabrese has been director of several summer stock companies; four seasons ago was producer-director for Playbox Summer Theatre, White Lake, N.Y. During the New York season of 1969 he co-authored and directed "Pets" off-Broadway at the famed Provincetown Playhouse.

Miss La Placa was a soloist for four years with Princeton Regional Ballet Company. She has also appeared in leading roles with Surflight Summer Theater, Beach Haven, N.J., East Carolina Summer Theatre, Greenville, N.C., as well as in Calabrese and Carr's Albuquerque productions of "I Do! I Do!" and "The Tender Trap."

The new theatre will be open Tuesday through Thursday evenings at 8:30 with tickets at $3.50; Friday and Saturday evenings at 8:30 with tickets at $4, and a special Sunday matinee at 3 with tickets for adults at $2 and children at $1.50. A seasonal ticket may be purchased for Tuesday through Thursday at the discount price of $15 or Friday through Saturday at the reduced rate of $18. There will also be reduced rates for groups.

For further information contact the box office at 589-5188 or 943-4914.

THE LOCALE of Neil Simon's Broadway comedy hit, "PLAZA SUITE"—the famous "grande dame" of New York's luxury hotels, the Hotel Plaza, taken from the Central Park side. "Plaza Suite" opens the upcoming summer season at Woodstock Playhouse on Friday, June 18; will be followed by a host of other comedy hits, musicals and a classic mystery.

Plaza Suite Opens Woodstock Line-Up

Here's the way the order of Playhouse. Ike Schambelan, including the opening play. A limited number of season tickets are still available. For information write to the Woodstock Playhouse, P.O. Box 268, Woodstock, N.Y. or call 679-2015.

Plaza Suite opens on June 18, followed by Adaptation/Next on June 29, Play It Again Sam on July 6, Dracula July 13, A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum July 20, Fiddler on the Roof August 3, Boys in the Band August 24 and Forty Carats August 31.

The opening show, Plaza Suite, will be directed by Harold Baldrige who will also direct Play It Again Sam, A Funny Thing Happened On the Way to the Forum, Fiddler on the Roof, Boys in the Band and Forty Carats. Baldrige has directed such great hits as Barefoot in the Park and The Odd Couple at the Woodstock

'Olana' Reopened; Other Sites Ready

It'll be a shortened season for all those popular and much used facilities of the Taconic State Park Commission—but there will be a season in 1971.

Schedules at such cultural and leisure spots as the Olana Historic Site and the sun-dappled Lake Taghkanic have been shortened and adjusted to cope with budget cuts out of Albany, resulting from the "hard times" financial situation now existing in New York State.

However, says the Taconic State Park Commission in announcing the schedule for its facilities in Dutchess, Columbia, Putnam and Westchester Counties, "every effort has been made to give the best possible service in line with the limited funding."

Herewith then the schedule: Olana Historic Site will be open now to Sept. 19 on a 5-day per week basis; will be closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

Lake Taghkanic State Park and Taconic State Park (including Rudd Pond) has opened for camping, with swimming at the beach set for weekends only from now to June 20. Daily swimming is slated from June 21 through Labor Day.

Clermont State Park—Grounds only will be open daily.

Ogden Mills State Park has opened its museum, daily through Sept. 19, after which the museum will be open weekends only.

Margaret Lewis Norrie State Park is now open for picnicking. The boat basin has also reopened, and camping is now allowed.

Dinsmore Golf Course is now open for play and the course will be open at 6 a.m. on weekends and 8 a.m. weekdays.

James Baird State Park has already reopened its championship 18-hole Golf Course, with the course open at 6 a.m. on weekends and 7 a.m. weekdays. The swimming pool there will open Saturday, June 19 and splashing activities are scheduled between 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. each day, with the pool closing Sept. 6.

Clarence Fahnestock Memorial State Park announces that its camping season is now open. On Stillwater Lake, trout fishing from boats only is possible on Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays from now through June 13 between 8 a.m. and 6 p.m.

All facilities at Mohansic State Park are now open except swimming. The pool there will be open Saturday, June 19; will remain open until Sept. 6 between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

John Jay Historic Site is now open on a 5-day per week basis; will be closed Mondays and Tuesdays.

Admire Old Houses? You'll Like This!

Cobblestone houses boast an imaginative construction unique in the field of architecture. For those interested in old buildings, they hold a fascination.

And TEMPO readers who find ancient structures fascinating may well want to plan a trip this month up to southwestern Monroe County. That's when the 11th annual Cobblestone Society House Tour is slated (Saturday, June 12 from 1-5 p.m.). Sponsored by the Cobblestone Society, the tours will coincide with Monroe County's 1971 sesquicentennial celebration.

The tour area stretches from Churchville, on Route 33 southwest of Rochester, to Scottsville on Route 33 and includes

Romantic Couple Magazine Cover

The drawing is titled "Romantic Couple" and it appears on the cover of "Channel," the Mid-Hudson School Study Council's well-circulated and well-read magazine.

The cover illustration is the work of a local student, Paula Zmiyarch, Saugerties High School senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zmiyarch of Katsbaan.

The youthful artist studied art for the past three years at Saugerties High with J. Terry Carlisle. She hopes to find a job in the art field after her graduation this month.

Picked by "Channel," the Mid-Hudson Council's publication to highlight plans and activities of the organization to member schools in the area, to grace its cover, Miss Zmiyarch's drawing was also exhibited this spring in a Student Art Show of work by Saugerties high school art students at the Woodstock Art Gallery. At that time, it was selected by TEMPO to be used as an illustration to accompany a review on the show.

buildings in Riga, Chili and these structures. As techniques developed, construction underwent refinements making buildings more decorative and elaborate.

Buildings selected differ from year to year and include schools, churches, taverns and private homes.

Visitors may obtain tickets ($2.50 per person) for this self-guided tour at Cottonwood Lodge in Churchville Park anytime after 11 a.m. on the tour date. Purchasers will receive a booklet with map describing the buildings, some of which can only be seen from the outside. Hosts and hostesses will guide visitors through those houses that are open.

There are approximately 500 cobblestone buildings in New York State, according to the Society, and most are within 80 miles of Rochester. The oldest buildings date to 1825-32 and were constructed of large, rough-edged boulders and rocks. Stone masons working on the Erie Canal provided the labor and imagination that created

Two cobblestone buildings are maintained by the Society in Childs on Route 104. One, a church built in 1834, serves as Society headquarters; the other, an 1849 schoolhouse, functions as a museum.

PATRICIA MONTESOL
Spanish Dance
For Arts Camp

For the first time, a class in Spanish Dance will be taught at the Creative Arts Camp in Woodstock. Patricia Montesol, who has joined the camp's staff, will teach Spanish dancing Monday afternoons, beginning July 5, when the camp opens its new summer season.

Miss Montesol, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Huttly of Woodstock, has performed professionally with Spanish Dance companies in the U.S., Canada, Puerto Rico and Spain. She has also been a solo guest artist on cruises to Europe, South America and the Caribbean. Other solo performances by the talented dancer have been given at New York City's Carnegie and Town Halls, Roseland and Dance City and at various night clubs in and around the metropolitan area.

Woodstock audiences have seen her in concerts at the Town Hall in the art colony, the most recent of several being one sponsored by Performing Arts last August. She also appeared recently at the Creative Arts Camp Reunion, dancing with her pupil, Melanie Witt, who has been a counselor at the camp.

Information and registration for the Spanish dancing class is available by telephoning Miss Ruth Ingalls of the Creative Arts Camp at 679-8201.

Music, Antiques New at Show & Sell

Those annual "Show and Sell" events sponsored by the Ulster County Council of the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society have always provided an interesting outing for hundreds of area residents.

This year's edition should be the biggest and best ever, since it will differ considerably from those in the past. Where interest in the "Show and Sell" has been focused previously on browsing and buying art works and crafts items, the 1971 affair will add antiques to the agenda.

And, in addition, for outdoors music lovers, it'll feature musical interludes throughout the day by the talented and youthful musicians of the Junior Board of the Philharmonic. The group is composed of young people who feel strongly about giving their time and talent in support of the area orchestra. The big Arts, Crafts and Antiques "Show and Sell" is slated Sunday, June 13 in the picturesque orchard at Manor Lake, home of the Amos Newcombes, on Kingston's Manor Avenue—off Albany Avenue next to the N.Y.S. Armory. All proceeds will benefit the Philharmonic Orchestra and, in the event of rain, the affair will be held the following Sunday, June 20.

As in the past, it's open to any artist or craftsman in the Hudson Valley, amateur or professional for a nominal entry fee and a small commission on sales made for the Philharmonic. And it's also open to the public from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., with admission charged for adults and children free. There'll be ample parking for all at the N.Y.S. Armory, and information on exhibiting and tickets is available from Mrs. Ned Buoymaster of Woodstock, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Slutzky of Kingston, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lancto of Rhinebeck, Dr. and Mrs. Richard Messina of Saugerties, and other members of the committee.

Shatner to Guest

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — William Shatner, former star of "Star Trek," will make a guest appearance on next season's "Mission: Impossible."

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Ralph Nelson will produce and direct "The Wrath of God" this summer in Mexico for MGM.

STEPHEN ROBIN — DESIGNER AND FURNITURE MAKER

Design & Make Your Own Furniture

Here's an idea for you that could develop into something far more intriguing than just a hobby. How would you, mayhap, like to make a table worth some $300? Or, perhaps, a chair, cabinet or bed has more appeal in your particular case.

Well, you can learn to design and make your own furniture in a Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen course taught by designer-woodworker Stephen Robin. The class, "Woodworking and Furniture Design," will be geared for beginners and hobbyists; will meet in Robin's elaborately equipped studio in Woodstock, where students will find lathes, power saws and drill presses available for their use.

"You start designing and building the project of your choice in the first hour of class," says Robin. "And classes are kept small to assure simple, individual attention."

Begins June 9

The course begins Wednesday,

June 9; will run for eight consecutive Wednesday nights. A similar eight-week course geared specifically for teenagers is set for Thursday afternoons. To register for either course or for further information, call 679-8527. Tuition is $5, plus a nominal fee for materials.

Instructor Robin, a critically applauded designer and furniture maker, is director of the Furniture as Art studio and gallery in Woodstock. His work has been displayed in museums and galleries across the U.S., and he has been featured in articles in praise of his stunningly attractive furniture in Esquire magazine, the New York Times and other major publications in the design field. A singular honor came his way recently when craftsmen throughout New York State elected him senior representative of the prestigious American Craftsman Council.

CUSTOMERS ARE OUR BUSINESS

DONALD SUTHERLAND manages to maintain his sanity during the Korean War on martinis and golf. He's one of the hip Army surgeons in "MASH," the hilarious comedy that established itself as last year's biggest and spiciest hit. It's back for a rerun currently at both Kingston's Sunset Drive-In and the Rosendale Theatre.

MOVIES

The Confession

Artur London was under-secretary of foreign affairs in Czechoslovakia until he was arrested in 1951 by State Security and accused of spying for the United States, being a Zionist and, somehow, simultaneously collaborating with the Gestapo.

After suffering a Dreyfus-like incarceration and brutal interrogations, London was made to stand trial. He survived, was exonerated, and now lives in France.

"The Confession," now playing at Tinker Street Cinema is a film based on London's autobiography. Directed by Costa Gavras, who gave us the excellent "Z," it stars Yves Montand as London. Montand seems to specialize in playing political victims these days, and he does it very well. Simone Signoret, his wife in real life, plays his wife in the film.

The movie is painstakingly realistic in its portrayal of the process of breaking a strong man by inquisition. If you're strong enough to take this story of psychic and physical torture as it erodes a man's integrity, you'll find merit enough in this tale that closely documents the horror of a staged Stalinist purge trial.

A New Leaf

Held over for a second week at Kingston's Mayfair is "A New Leaf," the film that provides a heyday for Elaine May and Walter Matthau. A happy movie, filled with laughter and human comedy, it's bright, bouncy, brisk and breezy.

Matthau plays a super-rich playboy who has run through his fortune. Miss May is the millionairess he decides to woo and wed as the means to acquiring more money without work. It's all wondrously funny as sloppy Miss May ("She has to be vacuumed every time she eats!" says Matthau), turns her suitor into a contented husband, who changes his mind about murdering her after the trek to the altar.

Wuthering Heights

Can there be a woman anywhere over 40 who does not remember with beating heart the romantic Heathcliff? The first Heathcliff was Laurence Olivier and he made a lasting impression on females around the world.

Now there's a remake of "Wuthering Heights," based on the famed Emily Bronte novel, and it's currently unreeling at the Hyde Park Drive-In.

Timothy Dalton, who played

Prince Rupert in "Cromwell," has the old Olivier role. No Olivier in looks or talent, he tries his best to be a different kind of Heathcliff, tossed out of the ancestral home, Wuthering Heights, and going abroad to return rich.

An Excellent Cathy

Very, very good, however, is Anna Calder-Marshall, who has the role of Cathy, Heathcliff's soul mate who is pledged to another after swearing eternal fealty to Heathcliff; curses him as she dies in childbirth when he returns too late to reclaim her.

It's old-fashioned romance in the truest sense, but it's a tour de force for Miss Calder-Marshall as a star-crossed 19th century heroine. Historically, the new version of "Wuthering Heights" is fine, but, aesthetically, it could use Olivier. There is, however — alack and alas — no fountain of youth for the aging Lord Laurence to revive himself.

MONTE WALSH is the co-feature on Hyde Park Drive-In's double bill with "Heights". An affectionate salute to a way of life and a breed of men on the point of extinction in the old west, it stars Lee Marvin as Monte, a top cowhand. Jack Palance plays his grizzled

Tribute to a Baron With Bogus Papers

The New Windsor Cantonment, the last winter encampment of General Washington's Northern Continental Army will pay tribute to General Baron von Steuben, the Drill Master of the American Revolution on this Sunday, June 6.

The Baron had served on the staff of Frederick the Great during the Seven Years' War. In the summer of 1777, upon learning of the American Revolution, he went to France and gained the confidence of Benjamin Franklin, then the American Envoy to France.

Travel funds were advanced, and Franklin penned a letter to Washington, introducing the Baron as "a Lieutenant General in the King of Prussia's service." With these bogus credentials, the Baron left Marseilles in the fall of 1777. On February 23, 1778 he reported to Washington at Valley Forge. Although he spoke no English and his French was limited, Steuben drafted a training program that was to change the character of the entire Continental Army. He soon won the hearts of the soldiers and eventually the admiration of all those who had a part in the struggle for Independence.

Mock Skirmishes

Ceremonies planned tomorrow will include a drill and parade by Volunteer regiments in the authentic uniforms and weapons used during the American Revolution. In addition, there will be mock skirmishes dramatically showing the great effect Steuben had on the American Army during our fight for Independence. The units planning to participate on Sunday are the First New York Regiment and the British Light Infantry Company, 64th Regiment of Foot.

Prior to, and after, this tribute to Baron Von Steuben, the regular Cantonment program will be given.

The New Windsor Cantonment is open daily to the public from 9:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., except Mondays and Tuesdays. Picnic areas and a refreshment stand are available on the grounds. There is no charge for admission.

Final Title

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — "Welcome Home, Soldier Boys" is the final title for 20th Century-Fox's "Five Days Home."

POTPOURRI

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

A rose may be just as fragrant by some other label, but Foster's Coach House Tavern in Rhinebeck wouldn't be the same under any other name. "Coach House" fits to a "T" and the decor keeps pace all the way.

Everything in sight is linked with famous steeds. Photos on the walls denote thoroughbred racers, with stall like booths christened after same. It takes a couple visits in semi-darkened atmosphere to spot the array of equestrian paraphernalia. There are harnesses, old wagons, carts; even the phone booth's converted coach.

Interior's red and black with dining room in rear aglow with candles. On Powder Room door is framed shot of filly named "Can't Wait;" and to put one in right mood, a radio was tuned to track news one recent Saturday, broadcasting latest racing results.

But, horses or not, one thing's for certain. Patrons won't get saddle-sore waitin' for service. Peg and Karen trot along at a surprising gait to keep up with steady flow of diners.

Proprietors for past six years are Bob (chef) and Karen (waitress) Kirwood who claim they've tried everything to originate a "different" bill of fare. They collected hundreds of menus from throughout the country and even some from foreign lands, saw menus printed on blackboards, cocktail napkins, racing forms, laundry slips, placemats, and in all sizes and shapes. They discussed the problem with experts and ended up with a menu not a bit original, nor fancy, nor unique. But there are no gimmicks: "We think the food's good; we think it's reasonable; we KNOW it's fresh... anyway, you can't eat a menu!"

If you're used to practically floatin'-a-lean for Surf 'n Turf, you may find this hard to believe but Steak 'n Lobster at Coach House lists for $5.50. Old favorites like Roast Sirloin of Beef or Hot Roast Turkey with potatoes, vegetable, salad, roll and butter, can be had for a two dollar bill (or two singles). From charcoal pit, there's London Broil at $2.50; Center Cut Pork Chops with Sauerkraut $2.25; New York Sirloin with Mushroom Caps $4.50; Open Steak Sandwich $3.

Combinations include Sirloin Steak with Spaghetti or Lasagne and Seafood Selections list Jumbo Fried Shrimp, Deep Sea Scallops, Broiled Swordfish, Filet of Sole, Combination Seafood Platter, and Broiled Lobster Tails at $5.50. Dishes for those claiming FBI background (Full Blooded Italian, that is) range from $1.50 to $2.75 and include Spaghetti with Meat Sauce or Sausage, Homemade Baked Lasagne, Veal Parmigiana. And for those who must eat 'n-run, there's a great selection of sandwiches whipped up in minutes to spur you on the way.

Everything's a la carte with appetizers running the gamut from soup and shrimp cocktail to Baked Stuffed Clams. Desserts include cream and pecan pies, ice cream cake roll, and the largest dishes of ice cream since the days there used to was.

One of Tavern's biggest boasts is number of patrons who've become "regulars." (It's a special boon for couples with families who enjoy eating out without having to mortgage the ranch to pay the check.) Perhaps it'd be "reasonable" to say, dining at Coach House is "Love at first bite!"

The long-established Mari Galleries, 120 Tinker Street, Woodstock, reopened for the season Saturday, May 29. Says owner Mari Heusch, "Times have changed, and art has taken on new dimensions. ERNESTLY SPEAKING is a two-dollar word that most people have a nodding acquaintance with these days; not too many of us have the same definition for it, but by and large it gets over as meaning someone or something that has two different personalities. Not exactly a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde thing, either... because from where I sit, being a "schizo" doesn't necessarily mean that one side is good and one side bad; at least, not when it's applied to a place like Roberto's.

You see, in addition to having earned our laurels as one of the really good restaurants of the area, we also have been lucky to build up a casual, friendly kind of evening attendance in the Cocktail Lounge... folks who might not necessarily care about eating out on a particular night, but who like to drop by, meet friends, have a drink or two, and (on weekends) maybe join in the impromptu entertainment that has become another Roberto's trademark.

In answer to some few who have wondered why we might care to be as well known for our Cocktail Lounge as for our Dining Room, I see nothing mutually exclusive in the two attractions. We try to serve the best Continental cuisine you can get for your money; and we try to serve the best drinks, in a refined environment, for those couples who enjoy staying up for cocktails, chatter and the sort of charivari that's super-induced by Mark Garrison at "The Hammond" and Tommy Fitzgerald on the drums, aided and abetted by a distinguished list of Ulsterites who like to gather to vie with each other in song and dance.

That's a pretty long spiel just to inform you that you don't have to dine at Roberto's first, to enjoy an evening with us; the fact that so many of our "regulars" do, kind of hints that it must be fun. And besides, let's be fair: My partner, Roberto, is well known as a master chef, a culinary artist of high attainments; but how many people know that I concoct a fairly persuasive drink? After all, I have to have some reason for always being on hand at these week-end soirees; it's not professional to admit that they're fun for me, too!

AMONG THOSE PLEASANT

at Roberto's recently were the members of the "Friday Night Women's Major Bowling League"... some 24 bowlers and guests. The Dinner marked the installation of new officers for next year: Rose Schatzel, President; Terry Becker, Vice President; Lucille Steen, Secretary-Treasurer; Pat Schlichting and Judy Elmendorf, Sergeants-at-Arms. Outgoing President Terry Becker awarded the Annual Trophy to this year's winning team from the Flamingo Restaurant, composed of Rose Domanico, Judy Elmendorf, Barbara Finch and Pat Schlichting. Sponsors of the Dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Roland A. Augustine, Mr. and Mrs. Pizzarelli, Mrs. Betty Schwab and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Stevens. It was a grand party (their comment: "Enjoyed by all; Food was Oooo La La!")... Another celebrative gathering marked the "Capping Of The BOCES Class of Practical Nurses, Class of 1972." The party included Pat Broadhead, Alice Dawson, Gladys Dawson, Julianna "Chickie" Decker, Pat DeGroat, Angie Dickerson, Kate Drusak, Mary J. Edmond, Eva Evans, Florence Every, Bernice Gulick, Marilyn Lewis, Nancy Poole, Theora Ricks, Marilyn Robinson, Lucretia Smith, Audrey Vandemark, Joan Weaver, Maude Wellington, and Rodney Woodworth.

The Birthday of Mrs. Martin F. Slattery, Jr. of Glasco, N. Y., was celebrated by Mrs. Slattery and her husband with the festive assistance of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Madden, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Slattery, Sr., Miss Bonnie Slattery, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Slattery, all of Poughkeepsie.  When Kingston's Lil and Dom Perry wined and dined Tessie and Sam Berger, of Shokan, on the occasion of Tessie's birthday, Dom left one of his less enthusiastic notes: "Dear Ernie: Everything was so great, we all bubbled over, more than the bottle of Cold Duck. Roberto's is just great." Whatsa matter, Dom? What didn't you like?  Another birthday party saw Betty Ann and Bill Brackfield, (of the Evergreen Inn) and Margie and Bill Rolff whooping it up for Betty Ann's natal day. Coming from them, the comment that "Food and Service were excellent; Birthday Cake out of this world!" is like getting Four Stars from the Mobil Restaurant Guide.  We don't get up early too often, but the other Sunday Roberto's had the pleasure of serving the 48th Communion Breakfast (Communion Breakfast for 48) for St. Catherine Laboure's Altar Rosary Society, of Lake Katrine. Gracing the dais were Sister Mary Immaculata, of Astor Home for Children; Philomena Mottsey, Rosarian of the Year; Yolande Di Donna, Past President; Mrs. Charlotte Malloy, President; and Father Sullivan, as Moderator.

MISH AND MASH

I wouldn't want anything I said in the first part of today's "colyum" give you the idea that Roberto's doesn't care whether or not you dine with us before joining the fun in The Cocktail Lounge on Saturday Nights. Perish the thought! My "message" was that for those who have some other dinner obligation and would like to stretch their Saturday evening into a real "night out," the "Saturday Night Shivarree" is a sure bet for a friendly fun fest.  Like, for instance, when Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whitaker entertained relatives from New York, they had a little "later than usual dinner," and then (in what is becoming a pat phrase here) "had a ball."  Another couple joined in the fun (having done so before!) were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Berardi. As usual, the talented Ulsterites who generated the entertainment included such regulars as Augie, Val Delavan, Betty Howard... and that "old Pro", Ed Shannon.  I don't boast a great ear for music, but it seems to me that our Musical Team gets better and better all the time; I mean Mark Garrison and Tommy Fitzgerald, naturally. Mark has always been a great organist, and Tommy is terrific at the traps, but I guess "practice makes perfect," and the lads keep getting more and more practice as more and more folks come with requests, or sing along with them, or join in the impromptu entertainment. I don't think I'd be wrong in claiming that they're the best "permanent people-to-people pair of entertainers" for a lot of miles around Kingston! Why don't you come up and sing with them sometime? (Any Friday, Saturday or Sunday)  Take it easy, and take advantage of the good weather by tootling over to Roberto's for Dinner.

sidekick, and Jeanne Moreau provides the romantic interest.

WHEN 8 BELLS TOLL and HELLFIGHTERS are the twin attractions at Kingston's Community, and "8 Bells" is also currently featured at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In. "Bells" is a first-rate, secret agent adventure drama, from the wonderful folks who gave us "Guns of Navarone." Lots of action and excitement with a topnotch British cast. "Hellfighters" has been around often before; focuses on the perils of fighting oil well fires.

A visually exciting film, it's also a perfect vehicle for its star, John Wayne.

FIVE EASY PIECES AND NEVER SANG FOR MY FATHER make up the double bill at Red Hook's Lyceum. The first boasts an outstanding performance by Jack Nicholson as a man running away from his roots and responsibilities. Totally contemporary in plot, pictorially stunning in camerawork, it also features a fine supporting cast, including Karen Black as Nicholson's short-order waitress girlfriend. "Father" is a moving drama of family relationships; offers magnificent performances by Melvyn Douglas as the self-centered father, Gene Hackman as his guilt-ridden son, and Estelle Parsons as the daughter long since banished from home for marrying without parental approval.

MASH. At both the local Sunset Drive-In and the Rosendale Theatre currently is this blackest, bloodiest comedy of them all. Elliott Gould and Donald Sutherland are fabulous as two Army surgeons in a mobile hospital during the Korean War. Definitely one of the best films made in many a decade. Co-featured at the Sunset is "PATTON," with George C. Scott as the World War II general feared by the Nazis. (By TOBY GEERTSSMA)

Added Honors For Dorfman

Woodstock artist Bruce Dorfman has been appointed Visiting Artist-in-Residence at Syracuse University for the 1971 fall session. He has also been invited to teach a painting workshop during the 1971-72 school year as a guest artist at New York University.

After completing his Syracuse assignment, Dorfman will return to his position at the Art Students League in New York City, where he has been teaching for the past two years. He has also taught at the League's summer school in Woodstock for eight seasons.

Artist Dorfman, whose paintings, drawings and graphics are represented in New York City by the Kennedy Galleries, is also director of Woodstock's Young People's Studio, offering an art program for amateur and professional painters in all age groups.

Paltz Artists Plan for Fair

Plans for the upcoming Library Fair exhibit will be discussed and a committee named to hang paintings at the Fair when the new Paltz Artists Association meets Wednesday, June 9, 7:30 p.m. at Elting Memorial Library, Main Street, New Paltz.

The meeting will also see nominations for next year's slate of officers.

In other news from the Paltz Artists, Mrs. Marjorie Sheldon, president, will be exhibiting her impressionistic painting, "Milkweeds and Fruit" in the spring exhibit of the Dutchess county Artists Association at the IBM Country Club.

The Association notes that this is the second straight year a painting by Mrs. Sheldon has been accepted for the show by DCAA jurors. Paltz Association members and officers feel her selection was an honor since she was limited to submitting only one work for judging.

ELAINE MAY, who made her mark in comedy as the dis-taff side of Nichols and May, stars in the year's bouncy movie surprise, "A NEW LEAF." Film co-stars Walter Matthau and has been held over for a second week at Kingston's Mayfair Theatre.

Forget Your Worries .. Sing Along With Mitch

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
NEW YORK (UPI) —Remember Mitch Miller? You don't have to be old to recall his great sing along records. Even those who are under 30 may have warm thoughts about the man with the beard and his songsters.

When Miller's music was at the height of its popularity it exuded a good feeling because times were not so tense.

So now, when all roads seem to be leading to nowhere, is a good time to bring back Mitch and his boys and girls. They may be heard on a two-LP album, "34 All-Time Great Sing Along Selections" (Columbia G 302350). All the tunes are oldies which have resisted the aging of time.

Among them are "That Old Gang of Mine," "Tip-Toe Through the Tulips," "Shine on Harvest Moon," "Singin' in the Rain" and "The Whiffenpoof Song."

Makes You Forget

It is the kind of music that will make you forget your worries.

There may be some temptation to sing along with The New Christy Minstrels on "You Need Someone to Love" (Gregar GG-102). Unlike Mitch Miller's music, the Minstrels' selections belong to 1970.

In addition to the title tune, songs include "Close to You," "Make It With You," "Turtles and Trees" and others.

For those who like a mixture of artists, "The Super Hits, Volume Five" (Atlantic SD 8274) offer numbers by Aretha Franklin ("Call Me"), Led Zeppelin ("Whole Lotta Love"), Crosby, Stills, Nash & Young ("Ohio") and Blues Image ("Ride Captain Ride"), among others.
